Geriatric Care Management Services: What, Where, Why, When and How

The term “care management” is used ubiquitously in healthcare. This seminar is going to explore the different types of care management with a focus on private care management programs. The seminar will outline what type of services are provided by care managers, when and why would a client or professional refer to a care manager, and how the services are provided including reimbursement. Care managers can play an integral part of the health care team. This seminar will inform on how these services complement the many other services that are offered to older adults and their family members.

Presenter: Carla Sutter MSW/LISW, Program Director at Care Management and Coordination, a Fairview program that is dedicated to helping people care for themselves and family members whose needs are changing due to age or illness. Carla has worked in the Geriatric field for over 20 years and has provided training to companies and individuals throughout the United States and Canada.
